FEED THE PAGE: Writing Pad

Imagine you're almost finished writing a novel, short story, or poem, and suddenly all your creative juices go bone-dry. You could panic, attempt to conjure the writing prowess of Ernest Hemingway by doing jumping jacks, or quickly thumb through Stephen King's book on writing, but what you really need is a helping hand (or perhaps a good kick in the keister). Home to a range of intimate, inspirational classes, Writing Pad offers help on everything from thinking up emotive wedding vows to penning poems for your sure-to-be-soon appearance on Def Poetry Jam. And they can always help you smooth out the rough edges of your story: the intimate home setting, acclaimed instructors, and, last but not least, gourmet tasting plates have a way of making writer's block a distant memory.
